relation between bad odor and poor sanitation in urban chanels, comments and remedation? Posted by fppirco - 31 Oct 2012 07:16
To all colleagues
I look for comments for bad odor from urban water channels in large city with traditional collection waste water, I welcome for any practical remediation Such as decentralized (in-site) waste water treatment
I know many parameters such as weather, climate status and waste water quality involved in any remediation actions.
I thanks in advance.

Thank you for your mail and explanation which is true about bad odor and illiegal discahrge of sewer. It certainly will be a serious concern in the large cites in developing countries with poor sanaitation plan.

Dear Deo
Thanks alot for your photo ,and afew cases here may have some similarty in health realted issue, illegal disacharge solid waste and sewage ,the problem invisibile waste but with bad odore smelling may consequences of anaerobic digestion and process.
best regards
Mohammad

I also thanks of all send comments offer remediation and from Susan forum admin as well as.
